Bourgogne

Château de La Maltroye

Vineyards size	14 Hectares (5.8 Acres)
Farming	Organic but Jean Pierre keeps the right to do an treatment against rot at the end
History	The Castle and the vineyards were bought by his grandfather after the war. Jean-Pierre took over the domaine after his father - who already had the Domaine renowned between 1992 and 1993, after several harvest and vinifications.
The top value of the domaine	In general, old vines, a very good work in the vineyards and a worry for perfection in every step of the agriculture, the harvest and the vinification.
A few woods	Perfection on details, no compromising, and the full expression of Terroirs associated with the best elevage possible and the best association of oak barrels
	Precise, fruity, mineral and an association of different provenance of barrels with the Terroirs, as a Chef in a kitchen.
